

The energy transition is at the heart of national energy policy, with an ambitious target of 30% renewable energy by 2035. Algeria is also committed to reducing greenhouse gas and methane ...

Algeria is pursuing a dual-track energy strategy focused on strengthening its hydrocarbon sector while gradually developing hydrogen and renewable energy projects to increase its role in the ...

Algeria, long renowned for its abundant hydrocarbon resources, is now navigating a dual path: sustaining its role as a key natural gas supplier to Europe while rapidly accelerating its energy ...

With global pressure to decarbonize mounting and domestic energy demand rising rapidly, Algeria's energy transition is no longer just a vision, it is becoming a necessary strategic priority.

The 2026 Finance Bill (PLF 2026) makes the energy transition a central pillar of Algeria's economic strategy. It introduces tax and customs measures to encourage investment in renewable ...

Amid profound shifts in global energy and its first new government in nearly twenty years, Algeria announced the transition of its energy model away from hydrocarbons to renewable energy.

Algeria has announced an ambitious $60 billion investment plan for its energy sector over the next five years, underscoring the North African nation's intent to cement its position as a leading ...

Algeria is progressing with its strategy to diversify its energy sector, with a focus on a balanced mix of renewable energy, green hydrogen and traditional oil and gas development.

The North African country aims to strengthen its role as a key supplier of energy to international markets while meeting domestic demand and making a transition to more sustainable ...

Algeria is accelerating its energy transition in response to the increase in domestic consumption, which reached 73 million tonnes of oil equivalent in 2024, compared to 30 million in 2020.

Web: <https://rrrprojects.co.za>