

Three towns in Victoria's central highlands region are being considered for a radical new approach to regulated network electricity supply, through the development of stand-alone microgrids ...

In the aftermath of the 2019/20 Black Summer fires, the Victorian Government committed $9.85 million in funding to deliver the Community Microgrids and Sustainable Energy Program.

After the 2019-2020 summer bushfires, AusNet, Mondo and the Victorian Government designed a microgrid solution to support rural communities when the electricity network is impacted.

And in places like Victoria, Australia, they're proving to be more than just a bright idea-- they're a practical response to extreme weather events and the challenges they bring.

The Victorian Government is supporting and developing microgrids. A microgrid can be thought of as a small "subset" of the electricity grid that provides energy generation and storage to ...

While some farmers in Victoria are fighting against energy developments, others are frustrated by state government regulations limiting their renewable projects.

An investigation of four different microgrid-related experiments in Victoria, Australia revealed a number of commonalities and differences in relation to the drivers and challenges that ...

Current microgrid solutions include a variety of configurations, and individual geographic locations within Victoria have unique technical and operational requirements.

The Victorian government has launched consultation on its Community Microgrids and Sustainable Energy Program for three towns where residents were disconnected from the state's grid ...

To understand and quantify the value proposition presented by microgrids to Victoria in the context of the current Victorian regulations and constraints; and provide initial regulatory, policy, and market ...

Web: <https://rrrprojects.co.za>